

CS 1511 Homework 5

Mathew Varughese, Justin Kramer, Zach Smith

Wednesday, Jan 30

9.

If a C program can output x and another C program can output y , a program can be made which calls both of these programs in order. Effectively, this would output xy . Here, c would be the bits required to create this program that calls the two other program.